

IN BRIEF

Weymouth resident promoted at Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance

Rachel Laufer, of Weymouth, was recently named center coordinator of clinical education at Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance, a South Shore practice specializing in holistic treatment in orthopedic, spine and sports medicine specialties.

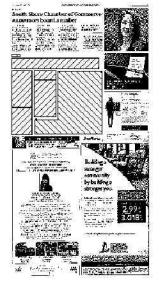

Laufer is responsible for the establishment, coordination and supervision of clinical rotations for Doctor of Physical Therapy students at Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Connecticut and the University of Rhode Island in Kingston, Rhode Island who are fulfilling internships at Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance. In addition to communicating with the school's DPT program, Laufer, as coordinator, will serve as clinical instructor for two students in 2017.

Laufer joined the Norwell clinic of Peak Physical Therapy & Sports in 2015. Recently designated an Orthopedic Certified Specialist, Laufer earned her Doctorate of Physical Therapy from SUNY Upstate Medical University in Syracuse in 2014. She also completed an Orthopedic Residency from Sacred Heart University in 2015.

"It's a pleasure to announce Rachel as our CCCE," said Eric Edelman, owner of Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance. "It's a post that requires a high degree of knowledge and responsibility; I can't think of a clinician more capable of performing this vital work."

Reight: Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance recently announced that Rachel Laufer, of Weymouth, has been named the practice's center coordinator of clinical education. [COURTESY PHOTO]