PHYSICAL THERAPY

Jeanine Jernegan of Kingston has been certified in dry needling therapy and will offer the service at the Scituate clinic of Peak Physical Therapy & Sports Performance, a South Shore practice specializing in orthopedic, spine and sports medicine specialties. Dry needling is a form of therapy in which fine needles are inserted into muscle knots, tendons, ligaments or near nerves to stimulate a healing response in painful musculoskeletal conditions such as shoulder impingement, tennis elbow, carpal tunnel syndrome, shin splints, headaches, plantar fasciitis or low back pain. Jernegan received her bachelor's degree in physical therapy from Northeastern University.
